

Marvin F. Hill, Jr.
Professor of Industrial Relations (College of Business) and Adjunct Professor of Law (College of Law)
Northern Illinois University
326 Gilbert Hall
DeKalb, Illinois 60115

Education

B.A. (1970) (Finance)(with honors), College of Business Administration, The University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa, 52240.

M.A. (1972) (Economics), College of Business Administration, Department of Economics, The University of Iowa (Area of concentration: industrial organization, econometrics and math-stat). Thesis: "The Economics of Death: A Study of the Funeral Industry."

Ph.D. (1976) (Human Resources/Industrial Relations), College of Business Administration, The University of Iowa (areas of concentration: human resources/industrial relations; equal opportunity and employment; business organization/law; and statistics). Thesis: "Alexander v. Gardner Denver and the Effect Upon the Arbitral Institution."

J.D. (1976)(with distinction), College of Law, The University of Iowa (areas of concentration: industrial organization and labor law).

Professional Experience

Professor of Labor and Industrial Relations, College of Business Administration, Department of Management, and Adjunct Professor of Law, College of Law, Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Illinois, 60115. Courses taught include: introduction to management (mass lecture format); collective bargaining; equal opportunity and employment; labor and employment law; business law; labor arbitration seminar (law school).

Legal Counsel (acting) (1983-84), Office of the President, Northern Illinois University.

Assistant Professor of Business Law, (1977) College of